Senator Borah has labeled the administration's request for cooperation in congress "superlative impudence." He resents the implication that Democrats and Progressives are incapable of supporting deserving causes without being pledged in advance. Senator Borah, therefore, and many others will not be stampeded in the disposal of legislation when congress convenes. It will be recalled that the president's request for cooperation was not made to the Progressives in the senate, but that takes none of the insult away, according to Senator Borah's viewpoint.

If anyone ever sincerely believed that the policy of cooperation solicited and obtained with such stirring manifestations of good will a few days ago ever would prevail, he should be convinced now that he was too hopeful. Senator Glass of Virginia has denied that the Democrats have any intentions of playing ball with the G. O. P., and Senator Borah has spoken in the same vein for the Progressives.

The people have a right to expect cooperation in congress, particularly at a time when opposition to the administration's program might retard recovery from a depression. The forthcoming session of congress will consider appropriation bills. Delay or filibuster are the weapons that may be used to block their passage and make it necessary to call a special session of the new congress. It is a situation which demands that national rights be given precedence over party rights.

The refusal of spokesmen for the Democrats and Progressives to pledge cooperation does not mean necessarily that cooperation will be lacking however. Viewed from a non-partisan angle it was a little too much to believe that the dominant party would be able to stand minority factions in line and keep them there even before congress convened. Legislative bodies don't work that way.

PROTECTION FOR HUNTERS?

The first day after hunting season opened, newspapers carried the usual number of laconic items describing the untimely ends of one or more hunters, as well as the run-of-mine opening day casualties. The items will continue to appear until the season closes, but they will be given only a fraction of the attention that will be their's were they to occur before or after hunting season. In other words, they aren't prime news; Americans expect a certain number of people to be killed during the season and they never are disappointed.

Formerly, a similar attitude obtained concerning Fourth of July casualties. Public opinion changed that, however. Children were being maimed or killed outright and a movement to establish a safe and sane Fourth was started after considerable effort. How long will it be, one wonders, until something is done to protect hunters? Or are they immune to protection, thanks to their age?

A hunter is shot through the head when another mistakes him for a quail. A duck hunter drops his gun and riddles a companion's arm. Nimrod climbs through a fence pulling his gun after him. The trigger catches and he receives a charge of pellets in the chest. A grown man wounds himself while cleaning his gun. Another looks down the muzzle to see if it is fouled. What has happened? Have the descendants of the men who dropped squirrels with one shot lost the mastery of firearms? Has the proverbial American skill of handling and caring for weapons deteriorated to a point where it is no longer safe for a man to venture into the woods and fields for day of sport in the open?

Up to now the conservationists have devoted their time to protecting game. It may be necessary for them to devote a few years now to saving the ambitious and obviously unskilled amateurs who set out so bravely to kill wild life and usually end up with quite a bag of their own kind. The few skilled hunters left may be counted on to do their part if such a drive is started.

"THE CLATTER OF HOOFES DIED AWAY."

Experiments at Fort Eustis, Virginia, preparatory to establishing a fleet of armored cars capable of cruising over rough land at high speed sounds the death knell for the cavalry. For several years the war department has been carrying out a program of retrenchment in the cavalry branch of the army and the last of the mounted units probably will be replaced by machinery in another half decade.

Time was when the gay young blade hied himself to the army camp and joined the cavalry, but now he drops in at the flying field and becomes an aviator. Modern methods of warfare have made horses practically useless in battle. The most practical use of the horse was to get bodies of men into position quickly and without fatigue to them, but armored trucks and cars will take care of that in the future.

Students of military science agree that the cavalry never was a very efficient means in modern warfare. The mounted soldier was picturesque, but the real fighting was left to his more stolid brother in the infantry and to the artillerymen. The best the cavalry could do was to harass with rapier-like thrusts, burn railroad stations, engage in skirmishes, and make itself a general nuisance to the enemy—and sometimes to its own forces. In the history of American fighting it is doubtful if any cavalry organization ever did more damage than did Morgan's raiders in the Civil war.

When cavalry tangled with foot soldiers, the field was likely to be littered with dead and wounded cavalymen and their mounts. Even before the day of gunpowder it was so. Witness the disastrous defeat of Edward and 30,000 mounted soldiers some 600 years ago when they engaged an inferior force of Scottish archers on the plain of Bannockburn in Scotland. The Scotsmen merely took up a position on a slight ridge and sent their missiles whistling into the massed troops. The Englishmen who could get out of the melle went as-scurrying for the chevrons as fast as their legs would carry them. Then, in later years there were the storied charges of the light brigade and Pickett's famous attack at Gettysburg both notable only as hopeless gestures.

It is a day of armor, machinery and mobility which will not be affected by the action of the enemy. Armored ships, tanks, tanks, Digouts, steel helmets, airplanes, bombs. As a force in warfare, the cavalry is outmoded in theory as well as practice. The clatter of hoofs on the field of battle has been dying away for years, and if another war comes it will be entirely absent.

ACTS TWO WAYS AT ONCE

NEW YORK

Day by Day

by O.O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—No hotel in the metropolis is so steeply architecturally or in tariff as the new Pierre. It shoots up 40 floors, an immaculate thin white spire. One may acquire modest suites there from $105 to $350 daily. But there are a few single rooms, too, at $8 per diem.

Pierre, the typical bowing continental hotel keeper came from Monte Carlo regions where hotel de luxe is a finished art. He was apparently given a hefty wad and told to let himself go in an inn that would do the village proud. It is situated on the site of the old Gary mansion, 5th avenue at 61st.

For years Pierre has conducted a sedately smart restaurant in the apartment house at 290 Park. Pierre has long dreamed of conducting the most magnificent hotel in the world. When it has achieved the success he hopes, he is to retire to France where he started as a cafe chasseur. So the saga goes.

The new Pierre's thus becomes a sort of monument to the personal genius of a cafe keeper. All ready it shows signs of handling luxury with restraint so agreeably stressed by the original Ritz-Carlton chain. The scheme of decor is chiefly Georgian as is the design of the building. Clerks are in cutaways.

Here and there are touches of 18th century English in the furniture along with the modernistic. Tenants on long leases are permitted to select their own decorations from a large supply on hand in the hotel's ware room. The register has all ready been inscribed by hand-picked scribes.

Pierre has achieved the softness of a fireside in a family in a monster hotel. Patrons find a batch of the latest novels at their bedside from time to time. There are especially uniformed butlers to air pedigreed kiycedles and 15 minutes after registering the entire staff knows you by name.

A breakfast room in all glass overlooks the park on the 40th floor. The most expensive suite has an expansive terrace. The grill is designed obviously to catch the eye. The ceiling is vivid blue and a huge open glowing boiler at the far end provides a striking effect.

From row G in the Music Box theatre.

He: "I have been reading Me-Fes North of Suez."

She: "I read it many years ago."

He: "But it was only recently published."

She: "O, that's right. I was thinking of West of the Water Tower."

And a drama stuffed with sophistication offers this treasured line: "Divorce is the fad of rich puritans."

Bide Dudley dropped into a Hawaiian cafe the other evening and among the diners saw a Japanese girl and a Scotchman in kilts. To add a quaint cosmopolitan touch he ordered frankfurters and sauer kraut and was just as quaintly served them.

In my gastronomic galivanting I have visited three Hawaiian cafes and in each asked for pea. I don't know exactly what pea is but it is always mentioned in tales of native life in Hawaii—a sort of national dish. So far it has not been procurable. Maybe it's a rag. If it is it hurts Hawaii more than me.

A stationery shop on Madison avenue offers engraved calling cards for dogs.

Experience with my own dogs is convincing enough they have no need for engraved calling cards. People they visit generally know they have been there without such hoity-toity reminders.

Most stage comedies this season—save Frank Craven's—have proven a terrific strain for the brightly sophisticated met. Sometimes an entire act cranks obviously along to achieve a studied smart line. And it is possible that among other things wrong with the legitimate stage is a surfeit of sophistication. I wonder! But am not wearing myself out at it.

The Stars Say

Although the astrological prognostications for this day have a most fortunate aspect, promising advancement, fulfilled ambitions, increased fortunes and decidedly prosperous conditions in many directions, there is a sign of outstanding events more or less exciting or sensational. While calm and well-directed control of affairs should be crowned with gratifying success yet a proclivity to turbulent word and actions may prove a frustrating factor. There are intriguing or baffling situations.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a year in which a very great deal depends on calm and well-directed actions with firm control on tongue and temper. Also there may be an inclination to strange or precipitate personal behavior which may prove a disconcerting factor. With care there is much good success and prosperity to be won with assistance from friends and elders.

A child born on this day may be expected to be efficient, capable and ambitious in many solid directions.

What Others Say

THE ORACLE STAMMERS

It has become an axiom in national politics that if the party out of power gains control of the house at the midterm elections it will go on to win the presidency two years later. This has held invariably true since 1876. In that year Hayes finally was awarded the victory, although his Democratic opponent received a plurality of the popular vote. Two years previously the Democratic party had won house control.

That is the only exception to the rule in more than half a century. In 1862, with Arthur president following the assassination of Garfield, one of the most famous of the midterm landslide gained the Democrats over 100 house seats and a majority in that body. It was a precursor of Cleveland's victory in the election of 1884. The Democrats retained control of the house in 1886, but nevertheless lost the presidency to Harrison in 1888. The tide swung promptly back, and in the midterm elections of 1890 the Republican party suffered the worst defeat in its history, retaining only eighty-eight house seats. The sequel was Cleveland's second election in 1892.

So it has gone. The Democratic rout of 1894 led to McKinley's victory two years later. The Republicans retained undisputed control of the house, suffering only the customary off-year losses, until 1910. In the election of that year the Democrats won a house majority for the first time in the new century. Republican disharmony grew, and Wilson was elected in 1912. Since overturning Democratic majorities in both house of congress in 1918 and electing Harding in 1920, the Republican sway in the house has been uninterrupted.

When it appeared, on the basis of incomplete returns, that the Democratic party had won control of the house at the last election, many and jubilant were the references of party leaders to this record of fifty years standing. Jubilation has abated little since it became known that the Republicans retained nominal control by a margin almost too thin to be visible. It is pointed out that in no case has a party retaining the presidency been so directly threatened at the previous midterm elections and that the Democratic gain is larger than any since 1910.

In view of the unprecedented closeness of the result, the oracle would seem to stammer. And the prophet who wishes to remain infallible had best wait with his predictions for a certain November midnight in 1932—Cincinnati Enquirer.

HEALTH

By Dr. Royal S. Copeland

Water a Health Necessity
Troubles of the gall bladder are all too common today. You can scarcely find a day when there is not the announcement of an operation for gall stones in the case of some prominent person. Each of us is likely to receive news of some friend who is suffering from a disorder of the gall bladder.

The gall bladder is a pear-shaped body, and is about the size of a pear. It is closely associated with the liver. The narrow end, the tube or duct, which is called the "cystic duct," tapers off into a tube or duct, which is called the "bile duct," and the cystic duct join to form another larger passageway. This is called the "bile duct" or the common duct, and it opens into the intestinal tract.

The bile that fluid held in the gall bladder is an ideal place for the growth of germs. Pus germs, those of pneumonia, of dysentery, or of typhoid—any of them may be found in diseased gall bladders.

The bile is composed of several ingredients one of which is called "cholesterol." It appears like fine granulated sugar—white, glistening crystals which are taken from the blood.

When the liver and gall bladder are normal everything is fine. But should the gall bladder be irritated or disturbed there is sure to be more than the required amount of bile there. If there is long continued congestion, inflammation, follows. This means that still more blood rushes to this area. More blood is crowded into the veins of the gall bladder. All the time cholesterol is being taken from the blood. The more bile there is the more cholesterol is found.

Then a germ or a group of germs offers a splendid nucleus for the accumulation of cholesterol. The excessive deposit of this substance clusters about any roughness in the gall bladder so that layer after layer of these cholesterol crystals gathers until the mass is like a grain of sand. After a while it grows large, until a small stone forms. There may be just one or there may be others if the conditions are just right. Of course when a stone begins to leave the gall bladder there is great pain.

It is well to avoid all forms of indigestion and constipation, because intestinal fermentation promotes the growth of life.

To get rid of the body wastes to carry away the substances which may cause gall bladder trouble one should drink a good deal of water. One of the greatest mistakes a person can make is not to drink plenty of water.

SENATE RELIEF UNIT TO PLAN FARMERS' AID

Committee To Meet With Agricultural Leaders
Next Monday

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Nov. 18.—With considerable agitation in progress for relief of the export debenture plan of farm relief, the senate agriculture committee plans to decide before congress reassembles, whether it will sponsor new legislation. Secretary Hyde, Chairman Legge of the farm board and the presidents of three national farm organizations have been asked to meet with this committee next Monday. Out of their informal discussions is expected to come a decision on the senate, either in favor of a further test for the farm marketing act now in effect, or for enactment of new legislation.

Hoover Begins Message
While these plans were being laid, President Hoover began writing the message he will send to congress at its opening, Dec. 1. The task is being done in the seclusion of his office and no indications are being given as yet of its contents.

Meanwhile, the extra session took went on. Senator Walsh of Montana, assistant Democratic leader, came out yesterday definitely in favor of having a spring meeting of the new congress, but opposing any effort to force it. There had been some suggestion that if such a special session were necessary the Republicans should throw the burden of organizing the senate on the Democrats. This was quickly scoffed at both by regulars and independents, in Republican ranks, however.

Senators and representatives are discussing unemployment legislation also but are holding plans in abeyance, pending announcement of the administration program.

Navy Building Program
On the house side, Chairman Britten of the naval committee, made known that a navy building program is being considered which would postpone for at least a year construction of any six-inch gun cruisers, the type which caused so much controversy in discussion of the London naval treaty.

The dollar volume of this program as yet is indefinite, but involves construction of new destroyers and submarines, modernization of old battleships and continuation of the 10,000-ton cruiser program.

SAVOLDI WON'T PLAY PRO BALL

Notre Dame Star, However, Will Aid Rockne
In Charity Games

(By International News Service)
SOUTH BEND, IND., Nov. 18.—Joe Savoldi, star fullback of Notre Dame who withdrew from the university following an investigation into his suit for divorce, announced today that he will not play professional football this year.

Savoldi told interviewers that he will play for his former coach, Knute Rockne, in three charity games this fall in New York, Chicago and Los Angeles.

Statement Issued
A brief statement issued through the university's publicity department read:

"It became known today that Joseph Savoldi has withdrawn from the university. The university officials when questioned about his withdrawal refused to comment, citing the fixed policy of the university never to discuss public cases of discipline. It is, of course, assumed that Savoldi's action is the result of the alleged discredit brought upon the university by his recent involvement in a suit for divorce."

Neither the fullback, Coach Rockne, nor any university officials would comment upon Savoldi's withdrawal.

Savoldi, although never regarded as a regular, was looked upon as the biggest threat in the Notre Dame backfield.

Suit Filed, Withdraw
The suit for divorce in which the fullback figured was filed for him by City Judge Al. W. Hosinski against his wife, Audrey Savoldi. The suit was filed November 6 and withdrawn within 24 hours. Prior to this the public knew nothing of his marriage. Judge Hosinski admitted marrying the pair June 3, 1929 while serving as a justice of the peace.

Savoldi is reported to have turned down an offer of $5,000 to play professional football for the rest of the season.

REPUBLICANS WILL ORGANIZE CAPITAL GROUP

Announce Preparations For 1932 Presidential Campaigns

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18.—The Republican party will maintain a permanent organization in the capital from now on, in preparation for the campaigns preceding the 1932 presidential election.

This was determined at conferences of party officials with President Hoover yesterday. Most of the officials of the Republican national committee were at the White House, but Senator Fess, of Ohio, the national chairman, was not.

Knew of Conference
His absence from the conferences immediately stirred fresh speculation on the possibility of his intention to retire. However, late in the evening the chairman issued a brief statement to the effect he had been advised the conferences would be held but had not considered his presence necessary as they dealt with office affairs requiring only the attention of the officers who talked with the president.

The definite result of the consultation was that Robert H. Lucas, of Kentucky, executive director of the national committee, will have charge of the permanent party headquarters, assisted by George De B. Keim, secretary of the national committee, and James L. West, director of publicity. This is the group which, with Senator Fess, had charge of the work just before the congressional elections.

Discuss Finance
Those who met at the White House said their principal business there had related to the committee's financial affairs. Joseph R. Nutt, treasurer, reported that after furnishing funds for congressional and senatorial campaigns, the national committee now had a balance of approximately $7,000 with no outstanding obligations.

With Nutt at the White House were James Francis Burke, committee counsel, Jeremiah Milbank, eastern treasurer, Lucas and Keim.

The defendants leased the property, and there has been a default in the terms of the lease, the petition shows.

PORTSMOUTH, Nov. 18.—Charged by Chillicothe officers with stealing $30,000 worth of cigarettes from a box car, William McNeer, 25, was arrested here yesterday. Police said they found 25,000 cigarettes in McNeer's home.

CHICAGO SCORES IN WARFARE ON CITY HOODLUMS

Old Vagrancy Law Used
To Send James Sammons To Jail

(By Associated Press)
CHICAGO, Nov. 18.—Chicago scored today its first victory in its fight to rid the city of "public enemies" by means of an old vagrancy law.

The victory came with the conviction late last night of James (Fur) Sammons, one of the original 28 hoodlums named by the Chicago crime commission as "public enemies." He faced sentence of six months on the county jail rock pile and a fine of $100.

Sammons, who, according to prosecutors has a criminal career dating back to 1929, was led away to a cell in the detective bureau to await the next move of his counsel. A legal effort for a new trial, Judge Edgar A. Jonas, in municipal court, said arguments on their motion would be heard November 29.

Sammons was confronted with another charge, that of burglary and larceny made in connection with the siphoning of whiskey from a warehouse several years ago, for which he was held under bond of $150,000. In addition he is wanted in Baltimore on a robbery complaint.

The jury deliberated for six hours before returning a verdict of guilty on charges based on the Illinois vagrancy statute of 1874, after a trial that lasted for five days. The state contended that Sammons was guilty under three provisions of the law.

Three Charges
That he was habitually neglectful of employment and did not lawfully provide for himself.

That he was known as a thief without lawful means of support.

That he had been convicted of other crimes.

Arguing that Sammons had paid his debt to society for his crimes by his imprisonment, W. W. Smith, one of his attorneys, contended Sammons had learned the trade of an electrician while in Joliet penitentiary, but had been prevented by police harassment from earning an honest living.

Meanwhile the drive on crime was reported to have taken another turn, with the grand jury scheduled to go into the question whether Alfonso Capone has had any influence on the affairs of the Chicago police department. The Herald and Examiner said eight policemen and a lieutenant had been summoned for questioning.

CONCORD, N. H.—A campaign has been launched in New Hampshire with a view to elevating rabbit meat to a prominent place in the everyday diet. County clubs are being organized to aid in this work and these will send delegates to the New England Federation of Rabbit Breeders.

KEPT MARRIAGE SECRET A YEAR
Pittsburgh Society Couple Announce Wedding In Wellsburg, W. Va.

(By Associated Press)
PITTSBURGH, Nov. 18.—With Pittsburgh society affluence over the wedding set for tomorrow afternoon, it was disclosed that W. L. Mellon, Jr., son of the Pittsburgh financier, and Miss Grace Rowley, also of Pittsburgh, already are married. They had kept their marriage secret a year, the bride's parents announced.

The announcement made by Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Rowley, simply said their daughter and the nephew of A. W. Mellon, secretary of the treasury, were married in Wellsburg, W. Va., Nov. 17, 1929.

The past week has been full of excitement in honor of the young people. The young Mr. Mellon, at her home shortly after the announcement was made, explained that even the immediate families had not been told of the West Virginia ceremony. They decided to elope, she explained, "and then we did not know just how to tell our parents about it, not that there were any objections, but they simply like to have things done in a conventional way. Mother and father were anxious to have all our friends see me married, and my husband and I might it would do no harm, and might please them, to go through another ceremony. Then we thought better of it," she concluded, "and we told them the whole story."

The bride's father is a Pittsburgh business man.

Members of the two families declined to discuss whether the ceremony and reception planned for tomorrow would be abandoned.

MOTORS OF DO-X TO BE REPAIRED

Will Be Taken Down And Inspected When Ship Reaches Lisbon

(By Associated Press)
BORDEAUX, FRANCE, Nov. 18.—Dr. Claude Dornier, inventor and builder of the DO-X, giant German seaplane, today said that it had been decided to take down the 12 motors of the ship when it reaches Lisbon and have them revised carefully and fully inspected before the plane proceeds across the Atlantic to New York.

He said his plans call for no alteration in the number or type of the engines. The explanations were in answer to reports from England that he would replace the present 12 motors with eight 900 horsepower British engines.

Experts here believe that the difficulty the DO-X has been having is not so much with the motors as with the magnetos, a report which is lent some color by departure of an engineer on the firm which made the magnetos, for Lisbon by airplane.

COAST'S BIG 3 ON WAR'S VERGE
Athletic Relations Considered Near Breaking Point Today

(By Associated Press)
LOS ANGELES, Nov. 18.—Athletic relations among the California Big Three, the universities of southern California, Stanford and California, appeared strained near the breaking point today.

ACKNOWLEDGES SITUATION
President Rufus B. Von Kleinsmid of the University of Southern California, was the first official of one of the schools to acknowledge publicly the situation which has been growing more tense since November 8, when the Trojans of his institution soundly beat the California football team, 74 to 0. Hints from California fans that some of the U. S. C. players were subsidized started the argument.

Dr. Von Kleinsmid said he was answering no charges but "I am saying that the responsibility for what may normally be expected to follow unbridled expression of Rancor from any source whatsoever connected with other institutions will have to rest squarely on the shoulders of those into whose hands has been given the keeping of good standing of intercollegiate and friendly relationships existing among faculty, students, alumni and friends of the several schools and colleges."

SAYS TEAM WAS CLEAN
The president took occasion to say the California-U. S. C. game was won by as clean a team from "every consideration as ever went on a gridiron," and to decry a contention under which "a victory subverts a team or the institution which it represents to slander and criticism."

NO WORD FROM KIDNAPERS.
Late last night Mrs. Hurford said she had received no word from the kidnapers.

Plans were made last January to kidnap Hurford, according to Nelson J. Moore, night police chief. He said the alleged extortionists were then believed to have come from St. Louis. The plot reached Hurford's ears when one of his associates was approached with an offer to participate in the abduction.

Hurford, who has lived in Tulsa for several years, has the reputation of being a "square gambler."

Hurford is widely known as a gambler and is considered the one man in this section who can and will "book" and pay any race bet he may accept. Previous threats of robbery and kidnaping induced him to hire a body guard some time ago, who did not accompany him on the fishing trip Sunday.

There is rioting in Barcelona. The old song "Weep, Weep, Catalonia" is still sung in Spain. Rioting in Havana, rioting in Madrid, a bomb blows up a soldiers' barracks in the Irish Free State, kidnapping and murdering continue in China.

This is not yet what you can call a really civilized world.

Men are still settling their problems as they did 100,000 years ago, by killing those with whom they disagree.

New York's district attorney says racketeers and gangsters present a problem in New York that threatens every citizen, even government itself.

Louis Sherwin, writing for Cyrus H. K. Curtis, recalls that nearly 80 years ago, in 1851, San Francisco facing a similar crime problem knew how to deal with it. A citizen's committee of 7,000, hanged four men and expelled 30 from the city. Thereupon 800 of the lawless element left of their own accord, convinced that San Francisco climate was bad for their health. But today's criminals are of sterner breed, perhaps, and in New York it is alleged that some of them have for partners magistrates and other officials.

Aviation Enthusiast Ridicules Allegations Of Suspicion

(By Associated Press)
VIENNA, Nov. 18.—From his prison cell, Charles A. Levine, who, Vienna police say, is an American aviation enthusiast, today ridiculed allegations of suspicion of intention of forgery which yesterday brought his arrest.

Levine was taken into custody at Semmering Spa, where he was resting, and brought to Vienna. Police said they found a ticket to Venice in his possession.

The Vienna police president said Levine had given orders to a Vienna engraver for metal dies and matrices to enable him to coin French, two-franc, one-franc and one-half franc pieces as issued by the French chamber of commerce.

He said also that in Levine's baggage had been found correspondence revealing an order at Leipzig for machinery serving to forge money and other letters discussing an order for counters to be used at international gambling resorts.

The police president said that since the bare preparations for forging money constitutes a crime in Austria, Levine must stand trial in Vienna.

WEST VIRGINIA MAY PURCHASE TOLL BRIDGES

Two Ohio River Spans At East Liverpool Are Included In List

EAST LIVERPOOL, Nov. 18.—The Chester and Newell toll bridges across the Ohio river, owned by the Steubenville, East Liverpool and Beaver Valley Traction and the Newell Street Railway and Bridge companies, respectively, may become free spans under the maintenance of the state of West Virginia if the program outlined recently by the West Virginia Bridge commission is carried out.

Announcement was made today at the offices of the commission that immediate negotiations would be started for the purchase of all toll bridges wholly or partly within the state.

Among the bridges for which negotiations will be started are two at Harper's Ferry over the Potomac and Shenandoah rivers; one at Shepherdstown over the Potomac; one at Williamsport, Md., over the Potomac; over the Ohio at Chester, Newell, East Liverpool, O. St. Mary's, Mason City and Point Pleasant over the Big Sandy at Kenova and over the Tug at Williamsport.

Among those for which negotiations already have been started, it said, are four over the Ohio at Wheeling, two interstate bridges and two intra-state; one at Hinton over the New river and one over the Ohio at Marietta.

The commission in its statement said it hoped "to complete the task of acquiring all such bridges without resorting to condemnation proceedings."

2 DEAD, 4 HURT IN BARCELONA STRIKE RIOTS

Thousands Of Workers Roam Streets Enlisting Soviet Aid

(By Associated Press)
BARCELONA, SPAIN, Nov. 18.—Two striking workmen were killed and four wounded in a pistol battle with police today as authorities sought to marshal thousands of civil guards, police and troops to prevent further outbreaks of violence on the second day of Barcelona's general strike.

Not until midnight did the thousands of strikers, called from their jobs in sympathy with a similar walk-out in Madrid over the week-end, quit the disorders which yesterday gave this city its most disturbed day since September, 1923, when General Primo De Rivera became Spanish dictator.

Thousands of workers roamed the streets shouting "down with the government. Up with communism. Long live the Soviets!"

Authorities arrested more than 300.

There was some anxiety as to possible developments from the strike which coincided with similar movements in such widely separated places as Oviedo, where miners left the pits, Villabona, Granada and Valencia.

Catalonia has long been the seat of a strong separatist movement, and some believed that agitators were using this as propaganda to support the general strike, and if possible, bring a revolution against the monarchy.

Golden Eagle Battles Grove Electrics In Cage Game Tonight

BOBBY JONES ANNOUNCES RETIREMENT FROM GOLF COMPETITION

THE DAY In Sports

CAGERS CLASH TUESDAY
CHANGES IN CAGE CODE

Before the sound of the meeting pipskin has faded away in its place will come the faint rumbling of leather beating an intermittent staccato on the hardwood court. Basketball is about to replace football as the king of the sports curriculum.

In Salem Tuesday night the first inkling that cage activities are about to begin will be given in the inter-city contest between the H. E. Grove Electric quintet, 1929-30 Class A champions, Saturday night the Electrics battle the powerful Canfield Olympic quintet and within the next month the entire city will be turning its attention to scholastic indoor battles.

No early-season comment with regard to the coming basketball season will be quite complete without a discussion of rules and rule changes. To the casual observer the changes scheduled for next season are relatively unimportant but to the close students of the sport they are quite significant.

Besides rule changes several important notes and recommendations have been made by the committee which annually convenes for the purpose of improving basketball. Several more important alterations were considered but will not be acted on until the next meeting, scheduled for next March. Two changes have been made regarding the jump ball at center in this year's rules. Rule eight, section three, has been changed to read: On any jump ball the ball may be tapped twice, but not more than twice, by either one or both of the players, and the second tap may be made either inside or outside the circle. After a player has tapped the ball a second time, he may not touch it again until it has touched one of the other eight players, the floor, the basket, or the backboard. The rules last year regarded this as a violation, and the opponent was given the ball out of bounds.

The second change states that in rule 15, section one, (e), on a jump ball, if the jumper leaves the circle before the ball is tapped, the penalty is a technical foul, instead of a violation. However, in the center tap the ball into the basket, the goal counts and the foul is not penalized. In this case last season the ball was given to the opponents outside.

With the development of basketball within the last few years a new danger has crept into the game which for some time has threatened the integrity of the sport—stalling or freezing the ball has caused numerous comments from officials and fans alike, and in some cases disunion has resulted in two schools severing relations because of this practice. Although this old friend does not bob up in this year's rules, in the form of a penalty, a new note makes some allowance for handling this situation, which will also come up at the next meeting of the rules committee.

Stalling is not to be confused with a delayed offense, or freezing the ball to protect a lead in the last few minutes to play, but to type which produces actionless games with one team failing to play ball and the other making no attempt to get it. The new note states that a held ball may be called in the backcourt when an offensive player holds the ball more than five seconds when a player is within five yards of him.

Several other changes of minor nature were made in the 1930-31 regulations.

A player who has left the game after being replaced by a substitute, may not return to the game until play has been resumed. In the numbering of players, teams are also requested not to use combinations of digits which are confusing to officials.

One of the more important of the lesser changes clears up a situation that has been pending for the past two years. If a player who is fouled in the act of shooting gets his field goal, only one free throw is awarded. If he misses his field goal, two free throws are awarded. In either case the ball is in play if the free throw is missed, if two are awarded to the same team.

Another change in a penalty ruling was made in rule 14, section seven. If on a free throw following a technical foul, the shooter steps over the free throw line or one of his teammates enters the free throw lane before the ball touches the basket or backboard, the ball is to be tossed up at center instead of the free throw line.

There is also a change in rule 11, section one, regarding the time taken out for a personal foul. When time is taken out for a personal foul, time is to be resumed when the ball leaves the free thrower's hands—when it leaves his hands for the last throw if more than one free throw has been awarded. On free throws from technical fouls or double fouls, the ball is to go to center whether the free throw is made or not, time is resumed with the toss at center, as formerly.

Important Note Added
The rule against kicking the ball, rule 15, section one, requires officials to distinguish between an ap-

Georgian Quits Game To Enter Movies; Will Not Turn Professional

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—Robert T. Jones, Jr., champion of golf champions and holder of all the major titles of the United States and Great Britain, announced his retirement from competition Friday.

Jones, having no more worlds to conquer in the royal and ancient sport, made known his decision in a statement issued on his behalf through Herbert H. Ramsay, executive vice president of the United States Golf association.

Jones in his statement, announced that he signed a contract on November 13, with Warner Brothers, motion picture firm, to make a series of twelve one-reel films, "purely educational in character."

Will Not Turn Pro
Jones declared flatly he had no intention whatever of turning professional, explaining that he was prompted to retire from the competitive field because he was convinced his motion picture contract conflicted with the spirit, if not the actual letter of the amateur rule. He did not specifically refer to whether he would continue, at any time, in open golf play, but indicated he was through altogether with championships.

The retirement of Bobby Jones brings to a climax not only the most sensational record of victorious achievement in all golf history but comes at a time when the great Georgian stands astride the golf world like the Colossus of Rhodes.

Conquered All Rivals
At the comparatively youthful age of 28, when most champions of sport are just swinging into their stride, Jones has conquered all rivals at home and abroad, won every championship trophy of major national importance from one to five times and crowned his achievements by making a clean sweep of all four British and American title tournaments in 1930.

No other king of sport ever decided to leave the competitive arena at so youthful an age or when at the very height of his powers with the exception of Gene Tunney. Tunney quit the heavyweight boxing ring in 1928 at the age of 30.

Jones won his first golf tournament at the age of eight on his home course of East Lake Atlanta. He was a sensation from the day he made his debut in national championship competition at the age of 14 at the Merion Cricket club, Philadelphia, in the amateur tournament of 1916.

Won First Title In '23
He did not win his first national championship until 1923, when at 21 he conquered Bobby Cruickshank in a play-off for the open crown of the United States.

Since then he has never been without possession of at least one national championship of the United States, to which he has at intervals added the conquest of British links.

patent and a positive act. Although it is difficult sometimes to distinguish between intentional acts and those that are accidental, it is better to have the official guess incorrectly now and then on this play than to have the constant and unnecessary interruptions in the game caused by calling a violation every time the ball and feet come together.

BOSTON—Portraits of Boston's 800 school graduates who gave their lives in the World War would appear in bronze on school building walls as an inspiration to pupils for many generations to come if Mayor James M. Curley had his say. He has gone on record in favor of a $28,000 appropriation for this purpose.

All told, Jones has won 13 national golf titles of the United States and Great Britain in a span of eight years. He captured the United States amateur crown five times, the United States open four times, the British amateur once. His scoring records have few rivals.

Won All This Year
This year, in a campaign started in the spring and closing in September, the Georgian won them all, in addition to capturing the vaunted American Walker cup, the team match with Great Britain overseas.

Throughout his record-shattering competitive career, in which his triumphant achievements have been matched by sportsmanship of the highest order, Jones has been held up not alone as a supreme genius in his chosen field but as an example of unspoiled ability.

In the first block a high run of 113 enabled him to win, 300 to 213, while last night his margin was 300 to 52, giving him an advantage of 600 to 250 with ten blocks to go.

Memorial Gym Scene Of First Basketball Event Of 1930 Season

Two Salem basketball quintets, both of which are destined to participate in a stiff contest for Class A championship laurels in the city's Class A league during the coming season, clash in a pre-season struggle at the Memorial building gymnasium tonight.

The 1929-30 city championship aggregation, the Golden Eagles, backed by Solbert Greenberger, vie for hardwood court honors with the newly organized Grove Electric company team, placed into the sandlot field this year by Raymond E. Grove. Both teams are rated high by fans who anticipate another successful cage season here this fall and winter.

The merchants reign ranking favorites to trim the Electrics, having strengthened their team by the addition of John "Pete" Sanders and have to round out the starting five, Lester Older, Lowell "Little Rib" Allen, Nate Caplan and Max Caplan, manager of the squad.

Ex-high Stars On Roster
The Electrics include on their roster Bruce Cope, Evan Jenkins, Jimmy Scullion, Bunker Hill, Charles Quinn and Paul Fogg. Jenkins, Fogg and Scullion all won varsity letters in Salem High basketball while Cope, Quinn and Hill also were members of Red and Black varsity squads.

Older and Allen were members of the famous Salem High team of 1926-27 which advanced to the semi-finals in the Ohio interscholastic tournament at Columbus. Bob Cope, rangy center, may also be with the team when it opposes the Electrics. Cope is also a former high school star, having played varsity center two seasons.

Nate Caplan was the mainstay of Salem's undefeated high school reserve quintet last season while his brother Max has participated in sandlot cage activities since his graduation from high school in 1927. Sanders played with the Moorland Florists last year, his team winning the second-half title of the Class A loop while the previous he assisted the Seiberling Tires in winning the championship of the city.

"BILLY THE KID"

At The Grand

"Billy the Kid," the most glamorous individual the wild west can beast of came to the Grand Theatre last night in the person of John Mack Brown who gives the best performance of his career in the historic role.

"The Kid" before his death at the age of twenty-one, gained the reputation of being the West's most dangerous man. Director King Vidor has sustained this legend in his adventurous and fast-moving picturization of the various incidents which made up the young outlaw's life, coming to a spectacular climax in the closing of a harrowing three-day siege.

The acting of the imposing cast is on a part with the skillful direction and excellent photography.
Wallace Beery as Sheriff Garrett gives another of his unforgettable characterizations. Kay Johnson offers a fine interpretation of the role of Claire, Karl Dane is a riot as the Swede cowboy, Swenson.

"LADIES OF LEISURE"

At The State

The talking version of David Belasco's famous stage drama,
"Ladies of Leisure" opened at the State theatre Monday night and will play there tonight and Wednesday.

The picture stars Barbara Stanwyck, Lowell Sherman and Ralph Graves, in a dramatic picturization of life as found in New York City.

Daring night club scenes, vivid pictures of the existence of Gotham's "400" and other elements of New York night life are featured in the production.

OUR READERS

PLAYGROUNDS

Editor, The News—Please permit me to make a few statements through the columns of your paper, in regard to what I believe is the need for suitable playgrounds in various parts of the city.

The youngsters should have plenty of room to play baseball and football. No doubt every part of town has more or less trouble, same as the west end, with larger boys trespassing on other people's rights.
In our case the ground most used is two lots on West Pershing street, a space about 115x150 feet. We all know that that amount of space is not enough room for ball playing.

Now I suggest that, if we need more school space, we build a good grade school in the vicinity of North Ellsworth avenue and Seventh or Eighth streets, use it for grade scholars in Fourth street school, and use Fourth street building entirely for Junior high.

Then funds could be provided for suitable playgrounds, with a swimming pool at Centennial park, and possibly another near Prospect school. I am in favor of the best of opportunities for the youngsters, but do find buildings necessarily mean fine education?

Is it not a fact that a large number of the country's really great men and women received a large part of their education in the "Little Red Schoolhouse?"

I venture to say that it was their close contact with mother earth, more than the school, that made them truly great.

Now, stressing the need of proper playgrounds, I will state what conditions, or rather lack of playgrounds, has caused in this vicinity. For several years the Dr. Hogan property, Wilson street, sometimes called Sunny Side, has been a bone of contention for the boys because of the fence surrounding it, and during the winter of 1928-29, the house being vacant, a large part of the windows were demolished, along with part of the fence.

I repaired the line fence three times this summer and even after
Mr. McCreedy and Mayor Davidson talked to the boys, this week I was required to repair the fence for the fourth time and then when I finally put up "no trespassing" signs some one tore them down.

Now, my idea is this—Those small grounds centrally located, are O. K.
for small children, and the larger boys could go out farther to play ball, or, as one of the boys and I figured, the city or community secure the vacant lots along the entire Hogan property for grounds.
They could be made into a fair ground, even room for ball, and then parents could see that their children keep off the street and not trespass on others' properties.

I figure that $100,000 would build a good grade school and buy and equip good playgrounds and do good for a greater number of people.

Besides we have Vernal Grove and Chevrolet Grove schoolhouses almost inside city limits.

Yours for the largest amount of good for the largest number of people.

GEORGE BRICKER.
